Worried that your intangible assets are being valued inaccurately?

Your attorney is handling the structure of the business transaction. Your CPA is making sure the accounting is handled correctly. But how do you know the value of your intangible assets are being fully accounted for?

A business valuation will:

- Utilize the appropriate methodologies for valuing intangibles, as required by GAAP
- Identify potential tax and strategic opportunities related to intangible assets
- Enhance your understanding of the fair market value of your company's assets

Our accredited team has been valuing intellectual property and other intangible assets for over 20 years. With our expert opinion, you can ensure that each of your company's assets are being reflected on your balance sheet accurately.
